A RAY OF SUNSHINE.

In the shaded light of waiting
I have stood and watched the days
As they moved in numbered measures
By the slow receding ways
That the laggard hours and moments
Have of passing when we long
To rehear a voice whose music
Is a recollected song.

I have felt the hurt of distance,
I have known the silent pain
Which companions constant, hoping
That the parted meet again—
An unyielding, helpless hoping,
In the likeness of distress,
Which as time goes on develops
Into utter hopelessness.

I have wandered in the shadows.
I have groped my way along
By the guidance of the music
Of that recollected song.
I have held my heart and waited
For a kindly, hopeful ray
Of the sunshine through the shadows—
And her letter came today!

Arc and Incandescent Lights.

It has been lately shown by Professor Nichols, the electrician, that in the average incandescent lamp, excepting the latest three watts per candle lamp, the light giving efficiency is only 5 per cent of the total energy radiated from the filament, the remainder being lost as heat. He has also demonstrated that the superiority of the arc lamp in the matter of candle power per horse power is not nearly so great as has been commonly assumed. So that, although the arc lamp may, when measured in the best and most favorable position, develop six and seven times as much light per horsepower as the incandescent—when their mean spherical intensities are compared—the actual difference otherwise is far less, and the ratio is reduced to only two to one in favor of the arc lamp.

On the other hand, however, arc lamps are usually placed in such a position as to bring their best light giving value into practical effect. In order to avoid the difficulties which have been met with in the method of measurements for the light giving value of illuminants, Professor Nichols suggests such a change as will take account of the fact above noted—viz, that the candle power of a lamp does not represent its light giving value, and in the case of the incandescent lamp, temperature and area of radiating surface should be made account of.—New York Sun.

Trash In Love Letters.

Referring to love letters, who indeed does not write rubbish when he writes a love letter? The greatest geniuses have proved themselves to be temporarily the merest simpletons when they correspond with the fair ones whom they professed to adore. Byron, who was a very astute as well as a very eloquent poet, was thoroughly aware of this fact. A masterstroke of determination not to become ridiculous in love letter writing was made by the Scotch writer to the signet, who always concluded his communications with, "Yours, dearest madam, without prejudice." But we cannot all of us be Scotch lawyers.—London Telegraph.

An Ostrich Skin Rug.

One of the most interesting curiosities for which sea captains' cabins are noted is possessed by Captain Peabody of the ship Tam O'Shanter. It is a rug made of seven ostrich skins, with feathers entire, sewed with catgut strings. The captain obtained it on one of his voyages to Patagonia. The work shows considerable skill and an eye for color effects possessed by the Patagonians, for the colors are most artistically blended. Captain Peabody asserts that it is almost impenetrable to the cold and maintains its pristine freshness and durability against all the rough handling on shipboard.—Philadelphia Record.

Crushing a Boston Girl.

"Is this a smoking car?" she asked in choice Bostonese as she peered through her girlish spectacles into the uncultured conductor's face.

"No, miss," he answered, with a glad, joyous feeling that for once he was getting even with a woman. "It is not."

She disappeared into the interior of the car, but in a few moments came out livid with wrath.

"You—told—me," she said in icy tones, "that it was not a smoking car."

"It is not, miss. None of our cars smokes. It is the smokers' car."—Washington Star.

A London secondhand bookseller recently advertised a little book of religious consolation. It was published in 1630 and bears the consolatory title, "A Handkerchief For Parents' Wet Eyes Upon the Death of Children."

Six-year-old Johnnie, walking through cemetery and seeing inscription on tombstone, "Not dead, but sleeping," said, "Well, I know if I was dead I wouldn't tell a story about it."

The eyes should be distant from each other exactly the breadth of an eye. A greater distance, according to an authority, indicates stupidity; a less, low cunning.

BISMARCK'S WASTEBASKET.

It Is a Morgue For the Devices of Ambitious Self Advertisers.

Every year as his birthday approaches Prince Bismarck receives scores of telegrams from persons who request immediate replies.

Bismarck's secretary in speaking of the wastebasket recently gave a Vienna journalist some information which is of special interest to Americans, as from the United State comes most of the telegrams intended for self advertising purposes. Here is a dispatch received recently by the prince from a New York newspaper whose name was withheld:

"Ten million Germans listen for your voice and wish to know whether you will again undertake the leadership of the empire founded under your auspices. Ten milllion Germans in America wish to hear from your mouth words of comfort as to their native land. Cable answer prepaid."

The dispatch was no sooner read than it went into the wastebasket. The idea of answering it never entered the head of anybody at the castle. An Englishman sent this cablegram shortly afterward:

"I, the richest citizen of this town, have but one unfulfilled wish—to stand before the most famous man of the century and receive the honor of his acquaintance. If the fulfillment of my wish should depend upon my giving any sum of money to any cause or society. I beg your excellency to name the amount, and I will at once deposit the same, no matter how large it may be. Cable answer prepaid."

The offer of money was as futile as the appeal of "10,000,000 Germans in America," and it followed the latter into the wastebasket.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Value of Inventive Genius.

"Speaking of street car conductors," said an old friend of mine the other day, "recalls an incident that came under my observation not long ago in which one of these much abused public servants displayed a quality of inventive genius that made a lasting impression on me and illustrated the value of this element in an emergency.

"The scene was laid on a horse car in a neighboring town. It was the last trip, and owing to an obstruction on the track that caused a delay of five minutes or more the conductor was plied with numberless questions by the passengers who came aboard all along the line as to the cause of the trouble.

When at a particularly lonesome point of the route, some part of the harness broke, and the prospects were favorable to a still further delay, as neither the conductor, the driver nor a passenger had the semblance of a string with which to repair the damage.

"Now, here is where the inventive faculty of the conductor came in. Pulling a number of hairs from the tail of each horse, he soon twisted them into a stout cord, and the needed repairs were made. Genius of this character," added my friend, "should have a wide field in which to operate."—Boston Herald.

Took to the Water.

A lady who lives in Lincoln, Neb., has a canary of which she has long been fond and is now both fond and proud. Its cage hangs in a room heated by a large coal stove.

One afternoon the lady was going out for a walk, and as the fire was low she filled the stove and opened the draft. She was gone much longer than she expected, and when she got back the stove was redhot and the air of the room was like a furnace seven times heated.

Her first thought was of the canary. She glanced up at the cage. The bird was nowhere in sight, and she stepped on a chair expecting to find the little fellow lying on the floor of the cage dead.

Instead to her delight there he sat in his bathtub, squatting down in the water with nothing out but his head, and even that he was ducking at short intervals.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Not In Their Class.

They were two fishermen of the purely sportsmanlike type. As they were making their way to the scene of their hopes they met a boy, a small boy, with a carelessly trimmed branch from a tree thrown over his shoulder. In one hand he had a tin can, and about the branch was festooned a fishing line.

"Hello, my boy," exclaimed one of the visitors; "going fishing?"

The lad surveyed with envious eyes their neat costumes, the handsome poles furnished with shining reels and all the rest of their equipment, and replied with a sigh:

"Nope. I ain't goin fishin. I'm jes goin down ter ketch some fish."—Washington Star.

Reminiscent.

Mr. Stayhome (of Philadelphia)—Stephen, you were at the World's fair Chicago day, as they called it, were you not?

Traveled Nephew—Yes. I distinctly remember I was there.

"Now, tell me honestly, Stephen, were there more people there that day than we had at any one time at the centennial?"

"Uncle Benjamin, there were more people at the World's fair that day than there were on earth at the time of the centennial."—Chicago Tribune.

THE HOME OF THE CUCKOO CLOCK.

It Is In the Black Forest of Germany In the Little Town of Villingen.

Villingen is one of the centers for the Black Forest clock industry. The making of clocks in the Schwarzwald dates from a very old time, and the industry has here attained some forms which are to be found nowhere else. It is perhaps the most distinctive of all the skilled trades of these clever people.

The inhabitants of the hills, from the earliest time, in distinction from the residents of the valley, who preferred to farm, have shown a love for woodwork, and centuries ago trained their hands to cut out various clever utensils. Their skill in this line took the form of clockmaking about 1680 or 1690. There were very rudimentary ideas afloat concerning what constituted a clock in those days. At first a weight was used hung from a string. Later the pendulum was introduced. Then came the striking one day clocks. Again, a little later, the eight day clocks. By their own discoveries and by the adoption of the inventions of foreigners these people have thus steadily kept themselves in the front rank among the clock manufacturers of the world.

This section particularly excels in making automatic clocks and clocks combined with musical boxes and other novelties. The principal thing in this line, however, is the cuckoo clock (in German kukuk). The first cuckoo clock was put together about 150 years ago by an inventive old Schwarzwalder, and the popularity of his clever mechanical device continues without abatement. As this is a subject which has lately been the cause of some discussion in the United States it may be well to say that this is the home of the clock in question. There are several factories in Villingen which manufacture nothing else.

The cuckoo is put up in every kind of a clock and with every kind of good, bad and indifferent timekeeping machinery. He may be had, works and all, for $1, and so on up, according to the quality of his song and other characteristics. His special peculiarity, of course, is his regularity, and this is what got him into trouble in the United States. He has a small cage up at the top of the clock, and whenever the time comes for him to go through his exhibition his door flies open, he steps out in front, bows and flaps his wings and sings his little song. He has been criticised for his limited repertory. Nature did this, and so no bird can improve on nature. The peculiar sound is made by the use of a sort of double bellows, through which the wind is forced at the proper intervals.

If it is a good clock, the mimicry is perfect. It is an invention which could be made only here, in the land of the cuckoo. At this time of the year the bird can be heard seesawing away in every copse of woods. He has points of difference from the American cuckoo. He does not lay his eggs in other birds' nests and seems, in fact, to be a very decent kind of fowl.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Superior Revolver Shooting.

The difficulty of shooting accurately with a revolver is apparent to every one who has experimented with the weapon. They are all well enough in the hands of experienced men possibly or at point blank range, but difficult for ordinary persons to handle satisfactorily.

This was made very apparent to a young New Yorker who visited the Adirondacks during the last hunting season. He was off with his guide, and having occasion to use a new revolver, blazed away six times at a near object without in the slightest degree approaching it.

He was pot a little disgusted with the result of his shooting, particularly as he saw a merry twinkle in the eyes of the backwoodsman and heard him exclaim, "I killed a spruce pa'tridge with the only revolver I ever owned, Mr. Blank."

"Is that so?" remarked the other. "You must be a good shot—better than I am."

"Don't know as I am," drawled the guide. "I blazed away at it six times, and the thing only hopped around—didn't mind it at all. Then I got mad, an I said, 'I'll take it,' and I threw the revolver at the pa'tridge, and derned if I didn't kill him that way. That's the best shot I ever made with a revolver, and about the best I ever heard of being made around here. We don't like the things, but give us a rifle and we're handy shooters."—New York Herald.

Training the Senses.

The eye always sees what it wants to see, and the ear hears what it wants to hear. If I am intent upon birds' nests in my walk, I find birds' nests everywhere. Some people see four leaved clover wherever they look in the grass. A friend of mine picks up Indian relics all about the fields. He has Indian relics in his eye. I have seen him turn out of the path at right angles, as a dog will when he scents something, and walk straight away several rods and pick up an Indian pounding stone. He saw it out of the corner of his eye. I find that without conscious effort I see and hear birds with like ease. Eye and ear are always on the alert. —John Burroughs' "Fielding Notes" in Century.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, JULY 28, 1894.

H. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

SWEET SIXTEEN.

THE INDEX-TRIBUNE is sixteen years old to-day, and enters upon a new volume as one of the substantial fixtures of Sonoma Valley.

THE Sebastopol Times comes to us this week greatly improved in its typographical appearance, Editor Brackett having discarded the patent outside which is such a nuisance to the publisher. The Times is bright, sparkling and newsy and is putting in some mighty good licks for Sonoma county in general and its section in particular. After looking over its advertising pages we cannot help remarking that its efforts in behalf of Sebastopol and the country surrounding the place does not seem to be fully appreciated by the business men up that way. Still the Times appears to be getting along under Brother Brackett's management, and would be prosperous if the people of Sebastopol would only co-operate with its editor in his efforts to make a living by publishing a six-horse paper in a one-horse town.

Fish Law Violators.

Much complaint is made from time to time about parties killing fish in Russian River by giant powder. The stream has been stocked with black bass by the State, at much expense, and the gamey fish are just developing enough to afford fine sport for anglers, who come from distant points to catch them. When giant powder is used it is destructive to all kinds of fish, large and small. Of course the black bass are most valuable, but the steele head trout and pike are also valuable fish that go to stock Russian River. The Fish Commissioners have endeavored to entrap those who are guilty of the reprehensible practice of blasting for fish, but heretofore it has been a futile undertaking. However, John P. Babcock, chief deputy of the Fish Commissioners, swore out warrants last Tuesday for the arrest of George Shire, Ira Smith, Ira Robbins and J. Reynolds, all of Windsor, charged with killing fish in Russian River near Wall's Springs, on Sunday last with giant powder. Mr. Babcock says they were detected in the act by an officer, who identified the offenders and secured sufficient proofs to convict. He says Shire has confessed the whole matter to him. If convicted the penalty is from $50 to $300 fine, or imprisonment for from thirty days to six months, or both fine and imprisonment.—Santa Rosa Democrat.

Something Worth Knowing.

No breeder likes to lose an animal through sickness because he doesn't know, early enough, what the trouble is with it. Therefore get a testimonial circular from F. Duhring with important information from Chas. Marvin, Goldsmith, John Kelly, driver of Directum, and others who have successfully used Manhattan Food, Red Ball brand, when horses were run down, rough coated, weak in kidneys, scouring or had impure blood. This food cures all stomach troubles of horses, cows, poultry, pigs and dogs. It keeps poultry in far better health, thus increasing their yield of eggs. This food received the gold medal at the California State Fair in 1892, and is fed by all first class poultry raisers throughout the State.

There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try

The attention of the City Trustees is called to the horrible condition of the open ditch in the rear of the houses on First-street West. The noisome and death-breeding vapors and the intollerable stench arising from the same are silently but surely incubating disease in our midst. A similar nuisance was abated on First-street West by the Board of City Trustees a few years ago. Why not this? What is sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander.

A small dog belonging to L. Modini fell into a deep well on the Vallejo place one day this week. A basket with a rope and candle attached was lowered into the well and the canine was scooped up several times, but after being raised a few feet he would become frightened and jump out of the basket. Finally the dog became so exhausted that he was unable to move. He was then hoisted to the surface, but expired in a few minutes. The animal was a great favorite, having been a pet of the family for eight years.

Sonoma ought to have a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. One day this week an Italian hailing from Lakeville made his appearance in this valley with a horse attached to a go-cart. The animal was a sorry sight and evidently was slowly starving to death. When opposite the Engler farm the horse lay down in the road from sheer exhaustion. A couple of passers-by lifted the animal on its feet, and the brutal owner, jumping into the cart, cracked the skeleton with his whip and the poor beast staggered painfully along the highway to complete his day's journey and possibly to bring up in a barren pasture field.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

Joe Ryan Thrown From a Horse and Injured Internally.

Joe Ryan, for the past three years employed in the Union Stable and engaged in driving the stage between this place and El Verano, met with an accident last Saturday evening about 8:30 o'clock that will probably prove fatal.

Ryan and a number of other young men have been engaged of late in amusing themselves with horse racing just outside the city limits.

On the evening in question, with a party of companions, Ryan went down Napa street in the vicinity of Orsey's corner to try the speed of a couple of horses. Joe mounted one of the animals and Johnnie McDonell the other. The word "go" was given and the horses started up Napa street with terrific speed. Just as the riders reached the Catholic church Ryan's horse ran into a light one-horse wagon which had been left standing crosswise in the road by J. L. Davis, the owner of the rig. There was a loud crash. One of the hind wheels of the vehicle was reduced to kindling wood and the horse and rider shot high into the air, turning a complete somersault. For a few moments the wrecked wagon, horse and rider were heaped up together in the middle of the road. Ryan fell underneath the horse, which was partially stunned by the fall, and in its blind struggle to regain its feet rolled over the prostrate young man.

Eye-witnesses to the accident went immediately to the youth's assistance expecting to find the life crushed out of him. He was alive and conscious, however, but unable to move. He was lying face downward, the horse having fallen directly across his back. He was picked up and taken to the home of his employer, Granville Harris, and a physician sent for.

Dr. Davis, who examined the injured young man, found that no bones were broken, but that he had received very serious if not fatal internal injuries.

On Monday morning he was taken to the train at El Verano by his mother and removed to her home in Benicia, where he was placed under the care of a skilled army surgeon from the barracks at that place, who has hopes of pulling him through.

Joe is very popular in this place. He is an exemplary young man and is good to his mother, to whom he sent almost every dollar of his earnings.

On Tuesday a dangerous but successful operation was performed on the young man by four army surgeons and at latest accounts he was resting easy and there is hopes of his ultimate recovery, although his kidneys and bladder are badly injured.

The Petaluma Fair.

Inasmuch as it is a well-known fact that a large number of Fair Associations throughout the State have concluded not to hold any exhibition this year owing to hard times and other reasonable causes, the management of the Sonoma and Marin Agricultural Association, fearing that there might be some persons laboring under the impression that no district fair would be held at Petaluma this season, have concluded to remove that impression by informing the public that the Association still lives and thrives and that no pains nor expense will be spared to make the approaching Fair a greater success than any heretofore held.

All of the interesting features that have marked previous exhibitions will be retained and such additions made to the same as will show the progressive spirit which has always characterized the management and at the same time cater to the enjoyment and pleasure of all who attend.

There has been some delay in the issuing of the premium lists, but these will be ready for distribution and mailing about July 26th.

The Fair will begin Monday, August 20th and will continue throughout the week, and all those who are desirous of securing space for exhibits in the Pavilion are requested to file their applications for the same at as early a date as possible either with the Secretary or Directors Houx and Hayden, Superintendents of the Pavilion.

An Inhuman and Brutal Act.

Mrs. Mann, an aged lady, living alone on her mountain farm a few miles north of Sonoma, had a fine milch cow terribly mutilated and killed one night last week by some fiend in human shape. The animal which was grazing a few hundred yards from her cabin home was caught and bound and disembowled with a sharp knife. The dumb brute's tail was then cut off and she was left to die an agonizing death. She was found dead the next morning by Mrs. Mann, but the ground surrounding the creature showed that she had died in fearful agony.

THAT WINE SYNDICATE.

To be Composed of the Merchants of San Francisco and the Producers.

It has now developed that the backers of the new wine syndicate which it is proposed to form throughout the State, but whose names have been kept back from the producers, is composed of the following firms belonging to the Wine Dealers Association: C. Carpy & Co., C. Schilling & Co., the S. Lachman Company, the Napa Valley Wine Company, Arpad Haraszthy & Co., Kohler & Frohling, Kohler & Van Bergen, B. Dreyfus & Co.

The firms not yet in the syndicate are Lachman & Jacobi and J. Gundlach & Co. It is considered quite possible that both may join before matters go much further, though at present they seem undecided and are, as one of their friends expressed it, on the fence.

The San Francisco Post says the proposition is to form a corporation with a capital stock of $10,000,000. All the firms mentioned as subscribing to the plan agree to turn their stock, buildings and cooperage over to the new association, receiving pay therefor in the bonds and stock of the corporation. The bonds given them will cover one-third and the stock two-thirds of the value of the property which they turn over. This value is to be ascertained by experts chosen by all interested, and whose decisions are to be final.

Besides the buildings and cooperage of the eight firms mentioned, it is stated that they own over 6,000,000 gallons of wine in this city, and they figure on starting in business, therefore, with first-class credit. Each of the firms is to wind up its own book accounts and pay its own present debts, and as a result the new business concern will be launched with a clean balance sheet and no liabilities.

A good many well-known individual vineyard men and wine growers have also agreed, it is stated, to put money in the new company, and those interested do not doubt but that their stock will be listed in the Stock and Bond Exchange under very favorable auspices.

The organization of the syndicate is yet to be completed, but frequent meetings of those interested are being held, and there is to be no unnecessary delay. It has already been agreed that the affairs of the company shall be managed by a board of eleven directors, though none of these have as yet been elected.

While the organizers of the new company are busying themselves as explained they are not losing sight of the necessity of securing the support of all or nearly all of the grape growers of the State. To this end meetings have from time to time been held in various wine producing districts, where the plan proposed has been explained and almost invariably with the result that nearly all of those present agreed to let the syndicate have the handling of their crops. The originators of the plan started out with the hope that 90 per cent of the California wine growers would pledge their support, and they believe now that this will come to pass.

Mrs. Johnson's Estate.

The inventory and appraisement of the estate of Mrs. Kate Johnson, who died in this place last December, has been filed in the Probate Court of San Francisco. The total is $1,282,240. Real estate foots up $821,235. Among the principal valuations are: Residence and 50-vara lot southwest corner of O'Farrell and Leavenworth streets, $62,500; 120 Sutter street, $300,000; Trinity street lot, $32,500; Pioneer warehouse, $33,000; Gibraltar warehouse, $95,000; 1,037-39-41-43 Guerrero street, $16,000; 50-vara northwest corner of Golden Gate avenue and Leavenworth street, unimproved, $120,000; Beach and water lot, 751 on Main street, near Howard, $12,000; Horner's addition, block 187, $25,000; Horner's addition, block 174, $12,000; northeast corner of Clay and Laurel streets, $11,000; south line of Jackson street, 137½ feet west of Laurel street, 137½x127:8¼, $13,000.

Sonoma High School.

The Sonoma High School will reopen next Monday with Prof. Ben. Weid as Principal and Miss Georgia Reed as Vice-Principal, and an attendance of between thirty and forty students.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The office of Treasurer on the Republican ticket is going a begging.

The Populists have made a number of converts in Sonoma Township.

W. H. Pool it is said will be nominated by the Democrats for County Recorder.

It is said that T. C. Putnam of Vallejo Township is bound to be nominated by the Republicans for Assessor.

Billy Longmore will have no opposition for a renomination for Assessor on the Democratic ticket and will be the nominee of that party.

Somers B. Fulton is still in the field for the Republican nomination for Recorder, and so are Messrs. Overman and Atchison of Petaluma.

There will be a meeting of the Republican County Central Committee in Santa Rosa next Monday for the purpose of fixing a date for the primaries.

Perry Sears, formerly of this place but now residing in San Francisco, is an aspirant for Deputy United States Marshal for the Northern District of California.

J. W. Hotchkiss of Healdsburg, whose name has been prominently mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Sheriff has withdrawn from the contest.

Capt. P. N. Stofen, present incumbent, will be put in nomination for re-election for Treasurer before the County Convention by the Sonoma delegation. The Captain is very popular with his party in this township.

J. W. Keegan, the Peoples' Party nominee for Assemblyman of the Seventeenth District, will shortly visit Sonoma to make the acquaintance of our people. He is the well-known and popular merchant of Santa Rosa.

Dan Davisson says he will run for the office of County Assessor on the Republican ticket if some one will put up $1,700 for campaign expenses and guarantee him the office. Dan'l, old boy, thou art too cautious.

Sonoma Township at present has no candidates—either Rupublican or Democrat—in the field if we except Capt. Stofen. Republicans, however, are urging Robt. Poppe for the Assembly, but Bob looks wise through his specks and says nay.

The friends of J. A. Barham, the Republican nominee for Congressman from this district, are very much encouraged at his prospects of success in the coming election. They claim that he is gaining friends every day. Mr. Barham is one of the foremost lawyers of Northern California.

The contest between Mrs. Martin and Ed. Davis for the Republican nomination for County Superintendent of Schools promises to be a bitter one before the Convention. The madam, however, will prove too fly for Ed., and we will wager a Santa Rosa dinner that she walks off with the honors.

The Democratic primary election is announced for Thursday, August 9th. The polling places and officers of election for Sonoma Township are as follows: Sonoma—City Hall; inspector, Jo. Lewis; judges, J. B. Small, Col. Robt. Atwood. San Luis—School House; inspector, W. C. Goodman; judges, A. E. Griffith, Jos. Pritchard. Agua Caliente—Butcher shop; inspector, J. E. Kearney; judges, Thos. D. Morris, Jos. Dowdall. Glen Ellen—Mervyn Hotel; inspector, J. S. Pieratt; judges, N. R. Hansen, Humphrey Hill.

Great Scott, "How the Mighty Have Fallen!"

Prof. Raynor, a teacher of elocution, who for the past few months has been one of the four hundred of Santa Rosa is in jail in that town charged with burglary. This is a big come down for the Professor, who has been wined, dined and petted by the ladies of Santa Rosa, (heaven bless them) as the lion of the hour. The fair sex up that way are now exclaiming: "Did you ever," while the brutes of men, belonging to the common herd, are laughing in their sleeves at the "excloosive" set.

Installation and Banquet.

The following were installed as officers of Rebeckah Degree Lodge, No. 99, I. O. O. F., last Thursday evening: Clara Cheney, N. G.; Mrs. J. E. Poppe, V. G.; Mrs. John Wagnon, Secretary; Mrs. J. S. Young, Permanent Secretary; Mrs. S. Culberson, Treasurer. After the installation the members and their guests, among whom were thirteen ladies and gentlemen from Ivy and Madrone Lodge of Napa and St. Helena, sat down to a sumptuous repast, which had been prepared by the ladies.

If you want a good time don't fail to attend the Wednesday and Saturday evening hops at the Park Pavilion, Glen Ellen. *

The Chinese are certainly a strange people—strange in appearance, customs and tastes. One of their greatest delicies of food, regarded from a Chinese epicures point of view, is "milhi," which in plain English means "newborn mice, yet blind." These are placed alive on little trays and set before each guest, who dips them one at a time into a jar of honey and then swallows the tiny creatures. When the Emperor's wedding was celebrated a few years ago, 50,000 of the helpless creatures were thus consumed.

Rice water is recommended in which to wash challies. Boil a pound of rice in five quarts of water. Cool it to the tepid point; then put in the goods and wash well, using the rice as soap. Pour off the water, leaving the rice sediment. Rub the challie well in this, rinsing in the poured-off water. Use no rinsing water, but hang the materials to dry direct from the rice water.

Last fall I was taken with a kind of summer complaint, accompanied with a wonderful diarrhœa. Soon after my wife's sister, who lives with us, was taken in the same way. We used almost everything without benefit. Then I said, let us try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which we did, and that cured us right away. I think much of it, as it did for me what it was recommended to do. John Hertzler, Bethel Berks Co., Pa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

FACTS ABOUT CRYSTALS.

Discovery of a More Perfect Way of Measuring Nature's Atoms.

The suggestion of a hypothesis for a new law of crystalline structure has resulted from the experimental researches of the Rev. W. F. C. Morsell, who was recently awarded the John Scott medal by the city of Philadelphia on the recommendation of the Franklin institute for his discoveries in the application of polarization colors to art teaching.

If the hypothesis be verified, which seems very probable, it will be a radically new law of crystallization, yet it will be no more than an application of Sir David Brewster's law of polarization, which, however, has so far never been applied to solving the angles of crystals.

Mr. Morsell has noticed that variations of the crystal angles from 90 degrees are always multiples of the distance between the path of the rays in a double refracting crystal. For instance, in Iceland spar the rays separated about 6 degrees and 20 minutes and 19 degrees, the angle of the face for incident light, is three times this distance.

Testing the hypothesis, it was found that the indices of refraction for both rays could be worked out trigonometrically by the ratio of sines and cosines of the crystal's angles.

In quartz Mr. Morsell observed such remarkable verification of the hypothesis that a quartz crystal appears to be, to use his own language, "nature's own edition of trigonometrical tables."

If this new theory be verified, it will lead to the conclusion that there is a trace of an ideal crystal in the natural prism of spar and that the variations of the natural crystal from the ideal are measured by comparing the angles of the natural crystal with 90 degrees or with the nearest submultiple of 360 degrees.

In quartz, which is double refracting, the paths of the rays differ by 30 minutes. This enters many hundreds of times into the angles of quartz. The multiples are true for degrees and true for seconds, and so on to infinity.

It follows that the index of refraction can be applied to infinitesimal molecular calculations and in the thin layer of molecules on any polished surface there is the apparatus to determine the path of reflected rays, and the shape of the molecule itself or of some infinitesimal group of molecules may have an angular relation to the wave length of the refracted ray. All bodies like glass, polished stone, etc., which have an index of refraction must have a molecular structure with crystal angles in the molecules sufficiently regular to affect different wave lengths of light.

In very small angles the sine and tangent become identical with the curve which they measure, so that a molecule or group of molecules is approximately bounded by circles, but when compared with a wave length of light its angles must have a distinct effect, so that in a thin molecular layer on a surface of any substance the molecules are infinitesimal crystals, each with its own refraction and polarizing angle.

The suggestion of this law has been laid before several scientific men, who consider the facts exceedingly hopeful in giving a radical explanation of crystal phenomena from an optical standpoint, and Mr. Morsell has been advised to communicate the facts to Dr. Crookes, the celebrated German scientist.—Philadelphia Times.

Naming Streets.

A correspondent of a London contemporary points out that among the numerous streets in Paris named after men of science 13 are dedicated to English (including American) savants. These are Harvey, Jenner, Newton, Herschel, Franklin, Faraday, Bacon, Watt, Stephenson, Fulton, Davy, Priestly and Cavendish. Even then the list is not complete, for it was announced not long ago that a street was to be dedicated to Darwin. This is of course highly creditable to French intelligence. In this country the case is different. In London, among the endless George and Queen and Chapel streets, the Buggins buildings and the Jobson rents, the correspondent cannot recall a single street bearing the name of a man known to science.—London Tit-Bits.

A Good Advertisement.

The gentleman from Boston was stopping with a farmer landlord, and a new guest arriving he was much impressed by the conversation of the Bostonian. Later he was talking with the landlord, who was not anything like so languagenous as the guest.

"By the way," he said, "that gentleman has an extensive vocabulary, hasn't he?"

The landlord was greatly pleased.

"Well," he responded, "you'd ought to 'a' seen it when he first come. 'Twan't nothing to speak of. He's only been boardin with me two weeks, and he's had to let his waistband out four times."—Detroit Free Press.

Japanese Journalism.

A curious feature of Japanese journalism is that every important paper is said to have a "prison editor." Japanese journalists are so constantly being fined and sent to prison that the sole occupation of the individual is to go to jail when called upon.—London Quiver.

A Fable That Teaches a Moral.

Here is a fable concerning a certain island infested by donkeys whose continuous braying disturbed the peace:

A valiant knight who heard of them said to his fellows: "Come. Let us away and slay these pestiferous braying donkeys so that the island may have rest." So each brave man buckled on his trusty sword, and away they went. When they landed on the island, they were met by one of its wise men, who, on learning the intention of the knight, warned him that the donkeys were immortal and could not be killed. "What!" said the knight. "Do you tell me that I and my brave men cannot silence these donkeys?"

Forthwith the knight and his men laid about them right and left till the ground was covered with defunct donkeys. Then they wiped their blades and retired to rest. In the morning the knight sounded his bugle horn and said, "Let us bury those carcasses, or the last plague may prove worse than the first." But when they reached the field, behold! every donkey was on his feet, braying loudly as ever. "What did I tell you?" said the wise man. "If you kill them today, they will be alive tomorrow." "But," replied the knight, "how do you live in their continual braying?" "Why, we let them bray and go ahead with our business or pleasure, the same as if they were not there." —Illinois Suffragist.

Worshipers of Strange Gods.

Snake worshipers are more numerous than river worshipers in the Punjab. They have always been a large denomination in heathen countries. Why they worship snakes is a problem that has been frequently discussed to no particular purpose. But people who worship owls, bats, lobsters, rats and mice will worship anything, and perhaps snake worshipers are so common merely because snakes are so widely distributed and so far from exclusive in their habits. If a man worships an opossum or an ornithorynchus, he must go to Australia to do so, but serpents are everywhere. So is the earth (Prithi), and the earth, as Hertha, Demeter and under many other names, has never wanted adorers.

Even the untutored Pawnees are earth worshipers and bury articles by way of sacrifice, which is more economical than burning them, as they can be dug up again. The ancestral mound is a good deal adored in the Punjab. In Scotland it became the fairy hill, as at Aberfoyle, and was treated with conspicuous respect in times comparatively modern. The church was usually built as near it as possible, perhaps to counteract the influence of the ancestral mound, or to acquire any local sacredness that might be going.—London News.

Ice Water Early In the Morning.

I am always surprised when I see a man fill his stomach the first thing in the morning with a glass of ice water. The ordinary stomach is tired anyhow, and when, yawning, listless, it wakes with the rest of the system, it feels like stretching and resting, folding its hands for a little more sleep and a little more slumber, just the same as the rest of us feel. What, then, must be its surprise to have thrust into it, through no agency of its own, it the unwilling receptacle, a torrent of its deadliest enemy, ice water? Having swallowed a glass of ice water, the ordinary idiot thrusts into the same stomach his oatmeal, his berries, his beefsteak and his potatoes and his hot roll and then wonders that he feels heavy.

Why, do you know what the stomach is doing all this time? It is wrestling with that ice water. Digestion cannot begin until the water is brought to its normal stomach temperature, and while the overburdened, overworked, strained organ is doing its best to warm this horrid stuff in it float your steak, your berries and your oatmeal, and there they must float until the gastric juice and the water are at a common temperature and the work of assimilation may properly begin.—Howard in New York Recorder.

Bacilli In the Dust of Cities.

Dr. Manfredi has been announcing some disquieting facts concerning the omnipresence of fatal microbes. In the busy thoroughfare of a crowded city he has found 1,000,000,000 microbes to a gram of dust, and in the dirtiest streets 5,000,000,000 per gram. A large number of disease producing microbes were found among these, the number of such morbific germs being directly proportional to the aggregate number of microbes.

Of 12 cases in which he inoculated guinea pigs with Neapolitan dust, he detected the tubercle bacillus (the germ of consumption) in three, the bacillus of pus in eight, the bacillus of tetanus in two, the bacillus of malignant œdema in four and other fatal bacilli. A medical paper suggests that the streets of American cities should be tested for microbes and is confident that in many of them a harvest as rich in variety and deadliness as was garnered in Naples could easily be secured. Emphasis is given to Dr. Manfredi's alarming statistics by the results of some investigations which have been carried on by Professor Uffelman with respect to the carrying of cholera bacilli by means of letters, postal cards, etc.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Castle Crags & Mt. Shasta.

Read what the Rev. Dr. J. K. McLean, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Oakland, says of it:

Hazel Creek, April 14, '94.

* * * I am more than pleased with it—delighted. The place seems to me to embody all available points for a camp—dry, firm soil, good water (the very best), fine chances for drainage, and scenery unsurpassable. The view of Mt. Shasta is one of the very best to be had from any point; it is visible from every part of the ground. The view of the Crags also is fine. The general environment is of the best. It is an oval-shaped amphitheater, three miles long by one-fourth to ¾ of a mile wide, with receding walls two to three thousand feet in height, with lines and shades of beauty at every reach. I doubt if a better place can be found in all Northern California.
